SUNSHINESCHOOLERS

Your homeschool week

A little planning, room to grow.

Use your editable Canva planner to type your plans, or print the blank version and fill it in by hand. Make room for the week that works for your family.

01 Make a fresh copy

Open your planner in Canva and make a copy before editing. Keep an untouched master, then name each new copy for the week.

02 Make it your own

Edit subjects, assignments, dates and routines. Duplicate or delete text boxes as needed. The squares are printable checklist symbols. Keep text within its day column.

03 Download and print

Download your finished planner as PDF Print. Use US Letter paper in landscape orientation and print at Actual size or 100%. Check that all text fits before downloading. The instruction sheet uses portrait orientation.

A helping hand from ChatGPT

Copy this prompt, add your assignments, then check the result against your curriculum.

Organize my assignments into a Monday-Friday homeschool schedule. Group each day by subject and use short checklist items. Preserve lesson titles and page numbers. Do not invent or add work. Keep specified days; ask where to put undated work. List daily routines and flexible weekly reading separately. Use plain text with a heading for each day so I can copy each day into Canva. Keep wording brief for narrow columns. Flag missing or unclear information.

Week of: [date]
Assignments and preferred days: [paste here]
Daily routines: [list here]
Flexible reading: [list here]

Open your editable template
https://canva.link/9b7wn8pzd9qzo59

Paste each day into its column. This prompt prepares the wording; it does not fill the Canva template automatically.